Introduction

Creative Morristown convened in October 2012 to embrace creativity and innovation to spark new ideas and strategies for the sustainability and prosperity of their community. Of Morristown’s 18,000+ residents and thousands more who commute daily for work and pleasure, Creative Morristown brought together community leaders and concerned citizens from business and industry, arts and culture, sustainability and environment, education, science and technology, faith-based, media, government, and philanthropy for two days of intentional and action-oriented cross-sector discussions.

Creative New Jersey is dedicated to fostering creativity, innovation, and sustainability by empowering cross-sector partnerships in commerce, education, philanthropy, government, and culture in order to ensure dynamic communities and a thriving economy.
Summary Report #1: Bars co-exist with Local Businesses and Neighborhoods

Convener: Kevin Coughlin

Participants:
Leslie Bensley, Cory Baum, Kevin Coughlin, Kadie Dempsey, Marty Epstein, Claudia Ocello, Chad Leinaweaver*, Donna McNamara, Justin Monetti, Frederque Turnier-Finley, David Walker

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

Museum at the Pub
Bar Owners should be more responsible members of the community
Earlier closing time
Rewards for responsible bar owners
Spread out licenses geographically: So instead of everybody on South Street, zone some bars on Speedwell Venue for Alternative Activities to give people other things to do. Possibly use Vail Mansion with a wine bar.
Post Office? Hyatt Ballroom? WHO WILL DO THIS?
Focus on Artisanal Beer Brewing
Town Council should be more involved with problems caused by bars and patrons.
Bar owners should sponsor alternative events for their “20 somethings” patrons either at their bars or at other venues around town, like The Green.
Charge a fee on Bar Owners for these alternative events and positive community events. Like the Park Avenue Club in Florham Park where part of their proceeds go to nonprofits. Bars could support nonprofits working to create a healthy community.
Find a way to engage bar owner in Creative Community Activities: Like Museums and Bars collaborating.
Have Museums come to lead art trivia. Have the Park ranger come and talk and do some activities.
Lack of Leadership of Morristown Partnership is a concern
Is the community to be held hostage by Bar owners
Limit Bar hours
Train bartenders on how to deal with drunk patrons and come up with a city wide protocol.
Find out about other towns that are successful. Town models. i.e., Brooklyn
If a bar wants to stay open until 2:00 they have to include creative activities
Fluffy, the movie ticket taker, has become a city cult hero icon, and people follow him to bars. Hire Fluffy for positive things.

What needs to happen next?

Meet with Bar Owners
Meet with Town Council. Is ABC willing to meet?
Create a coalition of Arts Council, Morristown Partnership, Sustainability Office. Others?
Write a letter from everyone engaged in Creative Morristown to Council and attend a town meeting to discuss creative solutions in a positive manner.

Hold a summit with community members, bar owners, Mayor, Morristown Partnership, police, and Town Council

- What can be done beyond parents?
- If student interest doesn't fall in line what can be done?
- Peer leaders in mentorship roles.
- Communication between schools and community.

- Create an environment and opportunity for these connections.
- Do we need to restructure time in schools to privileged process?

- 5 learning outcomes
- Community needs vs. Community participation
- Students need to be treated as assets in the community
- Activity: Students form businesses with mentors from the community
- Ways to connect with others in the community
- Connect to experts in the community
- How do we get them into schools?
- Mentoring

- Need more adult involvement: teachers, community, experts. Mentors
- Ways of intervening that connect with all stakeholders
- Need to identify all of the different stakeholders in the community and also identify how best to reach them.

What needs to happen next?

Really, one conclusion was supported by all of the ideas below:

A group needs to be created with a leader who is invested and has the time and space (maybe it is even a paid position) to foster and develop a deeper connection between the community and the Morris School District. This group needs shared benchmarks that are measurable and membership must include high-profile/high-stakes people from the community who might coordinate and fund the measures of the group.

IDEAS AND SUPPORT FOR THIS CONCLUSION/THINGS TO KEEP IN MIND AS WE PROGRESS:

a. Create a community night at the high school. Invite churches, community house, youth programming. This is a true community night for businesses and others to see not only what is happening but also how they might connect with the school.

b. Extend project based learning across all levels

c. Colleges are underutilized resources in the discussing and need inclusion. Partner with organizations and corporations to fund it.

d. THIS IS IMPORTANT, MAYBE #1: plan to bring everyone back together. Liaisons represent a community stakeholder group. Students need to be a part of this group. Also, need a process to bring this back.

e. Stakeholder group needs structure and benchmarks in order to succeed. The shared benchmarks will be the major difficulty.
f. Art walks, place to see Sol Lewitt, coffeehouse, story and engagement in the community

g. A FIRST BENCHMARK/GOAL: Morristown students are going to be the most engaged in the nation. What can you bring to businesses?

h. We are creating a moment in history between the kids and community. This needs to be understood.

i. How can we teach the bigger stuff like skills of perseverance and confidence?

j. What does our group and community stand for/represent?

k. What does our group look like?

l. How do we ensure that this is not an enrichment program for those who already engage in enrichment programs? Need to be inclusive.

m. Literacy night for parents and bilingual parents--lend books to parents

n. Break down the stereotypes of schools for parents.

o. Go to families

p. Take the message to the place where the target population is

q. Deliver the message in a way that doesn't bring judgment.

NEED COMPETENCY BASED ASSESSMENTS THAT HAVE A MEASURABLE IMPACT.

OUR GROUP NEEDS AN INFRASTRUCTURE AND A SHARED AGENDA, AND WE NEED EXPERTS (like community stakeholders and educational researchers) TO BOLSTER THAT AGENDA.

IDEA: CLOSING THE ACHIEVEMENT GAP THROUGH ENGAGEMENT.
Session Report #3: Define Engage

Convener: Royce Wintz

Participants: Charles Lamb, Susan O’Donnell, Arik Cotton, Royce Wintz

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

- How do we include school/college talent in engagements in town
- Look for diverse talent to be inclusive
- How do we honor local history but at the same time bring in current talent
- Confused as to what is the hub in order to book acts
- How do we not exclude and stay open to hearing/seeing new things in the arts

What needs to happen next?

- Be open to hearing and seeing the diversity
- Honor local values
- Set up a new committee that covers diversity and arts
- Identify diverse stakeholders in the community who can help identify talent to present to the community
- Identify different venues in different parts of the community
Session Report #4: Regional Impact on Morristown Sustainability/Traffic

Convener: Linda Murphy

Participants: Linda Murphy, Myon Mccready, Neill Tolboom, Susan O'donnell, Cory Baum, Lynn Siebert, Simon Kawitcky

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

All agreed there needs to be a more proactive and strategic perspective on regional issues.

What does it take to have communities work together? Politics and personalities can get in the way. Municipal planning is done largely within jurisdictional boundaries, there is little incentive to think beyond borders (roads cross borders, but towns are parochial). We need to get people to the planning table ‘before, not after’ major development decisions are made.

Land use decisions drive traffic, examples: Hanover Ave corridor, Rte 24/124 corridor. This involves Florham Park, Madison, Morris Township, Morristown, and Hanover Township.

Local master plans, local zoning, and local boards of planning/adjustment operate independently and in isolation from neighbors, county planning, the North Jersey Transportation Planning Authority (NJTPA = 13 counties) and the state. There is no responsibility, accountability, or authority at any level to ensure regional planning and perspective.

What needs to happen next?

This is a fundamentally broken process. Communities must undertake voluntary collaboration in the absence of enforced regional planning. Members of the public can be a force, demanding that this take place (citizen action). The NJTPA has access to funds. Potential solutions include more light rail, bus rapid transit (BRT) systems, biking trails (protected from vehicle traffic), and walking corridors.

Public outreach may include: events, e-mail lists, media communications, website postings, etc. Let’s all be proactive and strategic in addressing this need for our community!
Session Report #5: How Can Morristown Celebrate Creativity & Innovation Week [April 15, 2013 - April 22, 2013]

Convener: Tom McMillian

Participants: Beatriz Bueno, Mark Gutkowski*, Wendy Liscow, John Madden*, Tom McMillian, Kerry Mowry*, Lesley Parness, Tom Werder*

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

Background -- “World Creativity & Innovation Week” started in the year 2000 and over the last 12 years has been celebrated in over 50 countries by schools, businesses, and communities. This special week is ushered in every year celebrating Leonardo Di Vinci’s birthday on April 15th. There is a global website, Facebook page, and LinkedIn group where folks who are planning Creativity & Innovation events share their plans, ask questions, and get support. Plus, after their events they share best practices.

To support the idea of how ‘Our community can engage Creativity and Innovation to ensure a thriving sustainable Morristown’, World Creativity & Innovation Week is a wonderful platform. One idea was to have a workshop on Saturday April 20th for between 50 to 100 people. At this event, there would be fun interactive sessions in how to better work together innovatively. Plus, other sessions that would kindle individual creativity. These experiential sessions could include learning how to draw a face, tell a great story, or play a musical instrument (e.g. ukulele).

Plus, during Creativity & Innovation Week, Morristown would support impromptu gatherings on The Green where Participants: would be invited to participate in a drumming circle or create and fly paper airplanes. Additionally, schools could be encouraged to celebrate creativity in their own ways.

What needs to happen next?
Creative Morristown needs to decide to support celebrating World Creativity & Innovation Week. If yes, a team of volunteers need to be put together, space saved, activities planned & a website created.
Session Report #6: How do you assist families on the brink of crisis?

Convener: Yvette Long

Participants: Arik Cotton, Charles Lamb, Chad Leinaweaver*, Yvette Long, Kerry Mowry, Laura B. Nash, David Sonazik

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

The changes in the socio-economic profile of Morristown and how these have impacted families that have lived in the area for sometimes generations, but who may no longer be able to afford to remain in their home town.

We addressed the organizations that currently exist and the need for additional services and the need for improvement of those that are in existence.

We discussed the following ideas as ways to address families in or who may be headed towards crisis. Some of these services currently exist and need enhancement and others are original ideas created by the group. As listed on our sheet:

- Family Success centers
- Interfaith Coalition
- Life Support Center/ Plug-Inn Centers (available 24/7)
- Preventative Health Care Services
- One Stop Success Centers which can be government
- One Stop success Centers which are privately owned
- A Hospitality Center which can be a first stop for individuals seeking services.

What needs to happen next?

As a first step, it may be important to bring these ideas and recommendations to existing organizations that are already equipped with the tools to assist families. Secondly, look at how they currently address their population and discuss recommendations on enhancement or complete redesign of their current method. From our discussion it was determined that a church coalition has already been formed and may be contacted to see how they implement some of these ideas.
Session Report #7: Should there be a Morristown (area) Arts Commission as part of town government?

Convener: Tom Werder

Participants: Tom Werder, Myra McCready, Lynn Siebert, Clementine Gardner

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

Agreed that having an Arts commission would be beneficial to the arts community.

Could be a liaison, the authority, to shepherd arts and creative projects through government red-tape.

Should we have a joint commission with Morris Township? The group did not think this was a good idea (politics, etc). Thought it better to start in Morristown and the Township could be brought in later.

What needs to happen next?

Explore the process of what would be necessary to create a commission.

Research: are there other "arts commissions" in other NJ communities?

Check out citizens.org

Discuss with the Mayor and first lady of Morristown
Session Report #8: Physical Space for Community Engagement in Morristown

Convener: Kadie Dempsey

Participants: Stephen Aluotto, Cory Baum, Emily Caliccho, Kadie Dempsey, Mary Epstein, Julia R. Gibson, Mark Gutkowski*, Brian Kievning*, Chad Leinaweaver, Maria Lupo, John Madden*, Tom McMillan, Kerry Mowry*, Marcy Needle*, Claudia Ocello, Maria Restrepo*, Lynn Siebert*, Dan Sroka, Tom Werder*

Highlights & key points from your discussion:
How would Morristown benefit from a physical space/place where community members could gather to create, inspire, and engage?

Spaces already exist – Library, Museums, Pioneer Park, Washington Park
Morristown lacks open spaces, though

What makes a friendly, usable space?

Physically safe
Large space for diverse physical activities
Like-minded people
No legal barriers for use
Diversity of people

But the space needs to be managed

Needs to be a designated space for community gathering

Discussion of enclosed versus open space – better enclosed because of weather issues

Ideas for spaces to use: Vail Mansion, Post Office

Funding – have bars, businesses buy into this

There are many underutilized spaces all over town – do this as a rotating space

Issues of insurance and zoning

This is a great place for meet-up groups to get together

Could be an arts-technology hub, or an entrepreneurial greenhouse – grants were written for this type of space but unfortunately didn’t get them – need more buy-in from others (like businesses) in town to show funders
Other libraries in other parts of country are trying to do things like have tech and computer programs that people want, so they use the library as a place for business

What could the space be used for?
Start – up/workshops for small groups
High School students showcase work
“New” neutral space because the community is divided – geographically, culturally, etc- this would give people a sense of ownership
Party space
Art shows
Community awareness
Performance arts show space and practice space
Neighborhood meeting association space
Hang out space for 40+ crowd – programming
Dialogue space for controversial issues
Independent films shown

Use spaces we already have? Re-use of post office?
Would be great to have it be cross-pollination place for different sectors of the community

Food trucks come and go there

Better to have a “new” space than use existing one because existing ones have baggage attached to them

Becomes a host-nucleus for other places

Temporary office space for entrepreneurs

Cooperative space for enterprise – place for working and café

Like a scouting place – where new businesses get matched up with entrepreneurs – think like baseball scouting – they go to place

But need space to be “permanent” so that landlord doesn’t rent it out and then people have to move

Where can we get $ for space? - grants for “creative placemaking”; maybe approach Honeywell for sponsorship?

But in the meantime – need to do something, somewhere – establish pilot programs
We need people in the community to step up – have to empower and enable the community
Models to look at: Science Park, Newark; Torpedo Factory, VA; Community Development Council in VA/DC

Big issue too is who will manage space/provide oversight
Need to create a non-profit and have rotating spaces
Put together people who have spaces with people who want to manage events

Need to get input from community – what does the community want this space to be?

Need Mission/Case statement

What needs to happen next?
The following people will get together at NK Architects office to clarify mission and case statement:

Stephen Aluotto, Cory Baum, Kadie Dempsey, Mary Epstein, Julia R. Gibson, Chad Leinaweaver, Tom McMillian
Session Report #9: How do we bring together our diverse community? How do we energize this to support and help our children?

Convener: Mary Donohoe and Nancy Bangiola

Participants: Nancy Bangiola*, Beatriz Bueno*, Gina Cangialosi, Kara Douma, Clementina Gardner, Mark Gotkowsky*, Brian Kievning, Chad Leinaweaver*, Donna McNamara, Lesley Parness, Justin Monetti, Royce Wintz, Christina Ocampo, Debbie Gottsleben, Amy Koritz, Charles Lamb, Kerry Mowry*, Alaina Renson, Maria D. Restrepo, Frederique Turnier-Finley and David Walker

Highlights & key points from your discussion:
What are the barriers to help come together? Identify these barriers so they are not recreated. Also look at these barriers as ways that could energize the community.

1.) Physical (Headquarters Plaza, Railroad, and 287)
2.) Transportation
3.) Communication
4.) Housing barriers
5.) Language

What are some solutions?

1.) Additional common gathering space.
2.) Incorporate green space in developments.
3.) Provide public transportation to spaces.
4.) Translate materials.
5.) Expand cross-cultural activities:
   (a) cooking and sharing this food with others to celebrate various cultures (The taste of culture held at the Neighborhood House);
   (b) ethnically flavored community garden;
   (c) cross-cultural film festival;
   (d) fork in the road (close down area, put out long tables with food and dancing);
   (e) display artwork in public spaces;
   (f) activities should be fun;
   (g) revitalize a welcome wagon.
6.) Invite community to MHS track in the evening.
7.) Make the "barriers" into conduits (connections between spaces).
8.) Leverage MHS as a cross-cultural space (MHS community night/ What if MHS students held an open space meeting?)
9.) Activities that present no cost:
   (a) Arts Council held a Pumpkin Illumination night where pumpkins were lit by the Reflecting Pool at Vail Mansion;
(b) artwork displayed in a public area;
(c) tenants and community members are brought together to address the physical barrier;
(d) ongoing collaboration between the Arts and Park councils;
(e) farmers market brought into the mall area;
(f) revisit the Sdat.

How do we get the word out?
1) Face Book (email, websites, and other electronic communication).
2) Send out the same message from various organizations and in multiple languages.
3) Form a public center that intersects at the school district.
4) Shared newsletter as a common source.
5) Physical communication on community boards (posting at the train stations and stores).
6) Network via word of mouth to bring various people together. A friend invites you, next time you invite a friend, and eventually the group is large and everyone feels connected.

What needs to happen next?

Decide upon select actionable items (solutions) to address this issue.
Coordinate the response to get the word out.
Session Report #10: Local Political System

Convener: Neill Tolboom

Participants: Paul Miller, Linda Murphy, Tom Murphy, Sonya Ramain, Royce Wintz,

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

Everything operates within a political system. To effectuate change we must understand the system, engage the system either by voting and/or attending meetings, organizing. There is a local level of apathy. Mistrust and mismanagement exists at the local political level. Money, power, border, and fear issue get in the way.

What needs to happen next?

Simplify government. Improve local government civics education. Stay informed. People need to understand the current system so they can get their ideas approved. Accept the system for what it is and work accordingly.
Session Report #11: Is there a creative way to engage young men walking the streets of Morristown, those who seem disengaged?

Convener: Yvette Long

Participants: Neill Tolboom, Tom McMillian, Brian Kievning, Mary Donohoe, Arik Cotten, Sonya Ramian, Kerry Mowry, Donna McNamara

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

- We need to be examples of a better way and to show them benefits of another way.
- We may need to encourage them to try something new.
- Sometimes being exposed to a broad array of opportunities and options may lead to a spark in their curiosity.
- Provide lots of personal choice.
- Exposure outside of the environment and immediate community.
- Provide a connection between education and a career or their interest.

Some ideas for engagement:

- YMCA
- Neighborhood House
- Boy Scouts
- Teen Pride
- Life Support System
- Morris Community School

What needs to happen next?

- Having more variety in the selection of options open to these young men
- Engaging existing organizations to provide more options to the programming
- Encourage and support more non-profits who are offering innovative ideas, and or creative programs.

Session Report #13: How do we engage the youth in the Morristown Community?

Convener: Alaina Renson

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

Need to think of moving events outside of the high school; find a safe space that keeps students engaged and allows them to take ownership: some place that is student-centered with variety of uses for space (performances, art projects, gymnasium, movie)

Utilize existing space such as The Neighborhood House, empty store fronts, college campuses

Needs to be affordable and accessible for students

Good example of youth ownership = skatepark

Re-imagine space (utilize “wasted space”)

Utilize empty store fronts to create visibility and visual interest in space

Respect youth as an asset

Incorporate their feedback in events and space

Open-space convening with youth as Participants:

Survey monkey

Facebook

Increase awareness of existing programs (ie. STARS program, “Mentoring and Tutoring” at Neighborhood House)

Facebook page

E-blast through the high school

Week-End Update (1x per week)

Partnership with area businesses

Sponsor events

Space utilization

Internship/practicum experiences

Possible ideas of events:

Travelling coffee shop

Rock and Ride – bike ride to various concerts in parks

5K races – tough mudder, zombie run, color run

Utilize timing of Tuesday night movies – optimum card

Java and Justice (gather at coffee houses to discuss important topics)

Youth Shuttle – encourage youth to venture to area events (“shrink the space”)

Create a culture that supports “pop-up events”
What needs to happen next?

Increase communication from community to youth and vice versa (e-blast at high school, Facebook page, Twitter and/or text)
Talk to business owners to create buy-in for event communication, event participation, sharing of space, sharing of resources, internship opportunities
Do a Needs Assessment to see what the students want (survey monkey, open-space event)
Investigate the internship/practicum/project idea with businesses to be involved with students – way to find student passion
Session Report #14: Green Development Program

Convener: Stefan Armington

Participants: Marcy R. Needle, Kim Hurdman, Paul Miller, Kerry Mowry*, Jeff Perlman, Sonya Ramian, Lynn Siebert, David Smazik

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

There is a desire to develop a Town program that will ensure that public infrastructure projects incorporate green development elements, and develop a public program that provides the following incentives for private developers to incorporate green infrastructure into new construction and improvements.

- Tax structure abatement
- Tax exempt improvements (solar, green roof, etc)
- Expedited planning and construction reviews and approvals
- Special Improvement District Green loan fund for green upgrades
- List of green improvements that would qualify for administrative approvals

What needs to happen next?

- Develop Sustainability element of Master Plan that includes goals and objectives supporting green infrastructure
- Develop a corresponding green development checklist for planning board approvals (variances), with clear nexis between variances and green development elements
- Conduct a Greenhouse Gas Inventory (NJTPA can assist with this)
- Conduct a Best Practices evaluation of public infrastructure and systems
- Highlight existing projects as success stories with metrics
Session Report #15: How can we use vacant store fronts for arts exhibits - performance spaces?

Convener: Royce Wintz

Participants: Phil Abramson, Stefan Armington, Gina Cangialosi, Anne Dodd, Simon Kawitzky, John Madden*, Kerry Mowry*, Claudia Ocello*, Lynn Siebert*, Frederique Turnier-Finley

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

Can we re-purpose vacant spaces?

Work with Partnership to determine interest

Start with visual art – paintings, sculpture, jewelry, photography and either post on windows or bring easels/display stands

Use all storefronts that are vacant on Morris, Speedwell and Washington

Down the road, work with an owner to determine interest in a 30 day lease to present performance art.

Morristown planners are looking for pop-up space in town that would be donated.

Inform of art installations through Council/Tourism.

Hoboken is doing something like this.

For land owners/realtors, will get others to see inside the property and may then be interested in leasing.

Develop a map with locations like a treasure hunt. Also advertise where the art can be purchased,

Liability issues?

Helps to promote artist.
Put idea out to commercial brokers for assistance.

Reach out to Simon Gallery/schools for art work.
What needs to happen next?

Connect with Partnership to put the idea out to property owners. Tell owners that all others are involved…

Interest Tourism and Arts Council

Call it a Moving Art Exhibit

Encourage crossing barriers

Use empty space near Pazzo Pazzo (underwritten by hotel?)

Contact Tourism bureau and Arts Council to promote and choose artists.

Contact commercial brokers/town planner.

Weekend use at HQ? Contact tenant association, then property manager.

Session Report #17: How can we encourage a diverse range of small business and cultural organizations? ("No More Banks")

Convener: Daniel Sroka

Participants: Kadie Dempsey, Marty Epstein, Julia Gibson, Kim Hurdman, Chad Leinaweaur, Kerry Mowry*, Linda Murphy, Claudia Ocello, Jeff Perlman, Lynn Siebert*, Daniel Sroka, Debbie McComber, David Walker, Tom Werder*

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

How do we encourage diversity in the types of businesses that serve our community? Morristown is growing in activity but we seem to only get wave after wave of identical businesses: a wave of banks, followed by one of bars, followed by frozen yogurt shops. We need a wide range of businesses, from big to small, to maintain a diverse, thriving, vital community. One problem is the attitude of landlords – no longer family-owned; they live far away with property managers as contacts. Much property owned by people not vested in the community. Landlords willing to wait out to maximize rent – so they can’t refuse offers from banks. Speedwell is the exception – dynamic, diverse – serves its own community, gateway for new small business. But what happened to black businesses that used to be there? How does a plan support minority-owned businesses? Can redevelopment mandate a percentage of retail space be reserved for small business? No, not thru Morristown.

What about convincing landlords to provide a graduated rental policy – invest in having long term tenants by starting them with lower rent and charge more as business succeeds and grows. How to match high rent value to planned use for the good of the community? How do we work with landlords and the town? Can a group develop a “Marketplace”, a central building with a large hub of booths for start-ups/small businesses.

What needs to happen next?

One approach would be to establish an organization whose mission is to encourage a diversity of retail businesses to Morristown. Eventual goal would be to acquire a building that could be turned into a Marketplace, subdivided into small booths that would be rented to small businesses and craft people. Would need to create a viable business model, find potential “angel investors”. One idea was to create a community development company: encourage individual members of the community to invest (small to large investments) in the creation of a city they want to live in. e.g. There is a new NYC group called Small Knot which facilitates a way for local citizens to invest in local businesses.
Look into new market development tax credit – federal

Work with the town – they are currently meeting with property owners to try to work towards a more diverse community plan. Identify your allies and engage – talk to all the current parties and determine who will work with you.

Would need to get together and meet again after this forum breaks up to move forward.
Session Report #18: Improving recognition and use of current cultural resources in Morristown

Convener: Justin Monetti

Participants: Justin Monetti, Kerry Mowry*, Lesley Parness, Lynn Siebert

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

There is a need to cross market between sites and networked groups that have similar focuses or missions. Identification and connection to new or unknown groups is key.

Using printed media between these sites as a network tool
Reducing competition and instead creating a larger networked visitor experience.
Having access to a master calendar for potential visitors

Making a connection between non-profit and corporate entities for collaborative event planning and marketing.

Digital marketing including local kiosks and use of other technologies at individual sites.

Use of schools and existing institutions to reach new audiences.

Attempting press events
Billboards
Movie preview ads for local experiences.
Intern at the Morris County Alliance for Tourism

What needs to happen next?

Connection of groups with similar and supporting missions to establish marketing initiatives.
Session Report #19: How should the churches be involved in the community?

Convener: Clementina Gardner

Participants: Clementina Gardner, Deborah McComber, Neill Tolboom

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

Churches provide many community services, but don’t, can’t get support from the govt.

Use the churches as forums

They are a resource

Churches bring in outside resources. Most people have no idea what services the churches offer. They are often asked to help, but are pushed away if they ask for assistance, particularly from the govt. The ever present threat of the division between state and religion.

Examples of the services that the churches offer: Pathways to Work, Homeless, Hospitality Link, Soup kitchens, Literacy Volunteer facilities and classes. Does the community at large know of this?

Need to tell the story. (for example: the role that the churches played in the teen suicide that took place in the High School) The churches were called in by the govt.

Many organizations are afraid to support church sponsored programs, and yet the churches continue to provide many of these programs anyway. (with no outside financial support) The church facilities are basically filled, during the week with outside organizations.

The central issue here is the fact that the govt. is afraid to cooperate fully with the churches, because of the constitutional doctrine of division of church and state. So, there is a need for dialogue between the churches and the govt. to make cooperation between the two.

What needs to happen next?
Session Report #20: Communication of right resources at right time to right people

Convener: Kerry Mowry

Participants: Robert Carr, Chad Leinaweaver, Tom McMillian, Paul Miller, Justin Monetti, Marcy Needle, Claudia Ocello, Lynn Siebert, Tom Werder, Dan Sroka

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

Need for communication, process, collaboration, inclusion and respect to sustainability of resources.
Key question - who are our experts, connectors and helpers to meet the needs of a diverse community?

Possible ways to do that:
Community Concierge/Clearinghouse of info like a 311

Existing resources - Go-to’s:
Library - reference staff
MCAT
National Park Svc/County Park Svc
Arts Council
Tourism Bureau
Mayo Center
Family Svcs Morris County
Visiting Nurse Assoc
Morristown Partnership
Interfaith Clergy Council (is there one? or many?)
Morristown Hospital
Neighborhood House
Seeing Eye
NJ Theater Alliance
Train Station
Post Office
Cab Drivers
Bartenders
Barbers/Hair Salons
Literacy Volunteers
Junior League
Welcome Wagon (does it exist?)
Morris County Hispanic Affairs
Neighborhood Associations
United Way
Supermarkets
Hotels - how educated are their concierges

Need a single point of contact - needs to be bilingual and inclusive of broad cultural community needs

Reference Librarians meet the need but few people think of them

Ideas:
Community Kiosks - with scrolling info for events and programs and services as needed
Needs to be strongly branded and communicated
Online clearinghouse, blogs, notices, discussion boards, printed materials
Elderly/Special needs need someone on phone or person can talk with Utilize underused resources such as Motown TV channel which is 24/7 and Cablevision Friday night 2 hours seem to be available
Leveraging MHS broadcasting capabilities and graphics capabilities and possible internships; include teachers as mentors, ask businesses for funding and mentors
Resource cultural center
Reviewing best practices of other libraries/resource centers across US
Morristown Green.com and Morristown Patch.com
Leveraging Jazz Festival at HS that includes Art - May or June
Town Hall as major stakeholder
Possible grant for Kiosk and media program
Could CCM be part of this as well?

Need a process for go-to people in resource organizations to come together to educate one another in a formalized way and collaborate

How could each go-to have a kiosk to promote this?
Presentations to Neighborhood Associations and stakeholders to expand knowledge

Need to do research on who is not using resources to better understand needs and why not using them and what is relevant to them

Who today has resources to gather this data - tourism? architects?

What needs to happen next?

who's not here - what do they need - have go-to people identify this Gather go-to people to share info with library and write grant for additional resources
Session Report #21: Involving the youth in this conversation

Convener: Alaina Renson

Participants: Kara Douma, Mark Gutkowski, Amy Kortiz, Christina Ocampo, Maria Restrepo, John Madden, David Walker, Tom Werder*

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

Involve youth and local businesses – need more voices in this conversation; David Walker to contact Morristown Partnership
Assess needs/interests of students to get them involved; facebook; survey monkey
Connect churches, non-profits, and schools
INCREASE COMMUNICATION!!!
How do we identify and engage those students who are disengaged?
Public Achievement – Harry Boyte; engages the disengaged; utilizes adults as coaches; students take ownership of real world problem/issue that they want to work on; utilize non-profits and higher education
Research program model and send information to group (Amy Koritz)
Service learning at Middle School – Alaina Renson and Kara Douma to connect
Increase participation of older students working with younger students (college and high school with middle school; middle school with elementary) – mentors need to be more organic to reach the “middle of the road students”
Need to provide training to older students to be “coaches”
Utilize time during school hours – move to an Extended Day Model
Provide multiple ways for students to succeed (service learning, public achievement, e-portfolio at middle school currently exists)
Students higher rate of success if the project is accountable to someone other than the classroom teacher
Public-Sphere Pedagogy – work on something that matters
Become aware of services provided in schools, churches, organizations
Organizational staff attend periodic school administration meetings to work for same goal and provide continuity of services

What needs to happen next?

David Walker and Maria Restrepo to connect about programming to create a support network for families
Other organizations/businesses/schools need to be informed of this process – Kara Douma will reach out to Lynn Jackson (who works in the community culture and awareness)
Research Citizen Schools and how they have been able to: Build a relationship between schools and organizations – open lines of communication between schools and outside providers
Send open-space notes to school administration
Include a link to Creative Morristown in school newsletter
Create a list of providers who work with schools
David Walker will communicate with Linda Murphy in her position as Community Outreach Coordinator
David Walker and Amy Koritz will open communication with Success by Six (United Way) about including services for Kindergarten students
Determine process of how to bring college students and high school students to elementary school to read to and coach students
Need a structure in place
Administration communication and buy in Space and logistics
Sponsor for Background Checks of volunteers
Mark Gutkowski will connect Maria with the PGC, National Honor Society, Key Club, and Interact advisors at high school
John Madden will look into how to turn-key Sol Lewitt project with younger students (great idea to do multiple levels and then display in town
Session Report #22: How can Morristown become a ‘magnet’ for arts (a cultural destination) + where and how to display the Sol Lewitt mural from M’town High

Convener: Linda Murphy and John Madden

Participants: Nancy Bangiola, Anne Dodd, Mary Donohoe, Mark Gutkowski, Brian Kievning, John Madden, Linda Murphy, Christina Ocampo, Barbara Reuther, Maria Restrepo, Daniel Sroka, Tom Werder, Royce Wintz

Highlights & key points from your discussion:

Morristown has the potential to become a real cultural destination, using the arts as a ‘magnet’ to draw people to our community. The idea is to be similar to the Newark Arts Month with artist studios, galleries, music, parade, sculptures, restaurant tie-ins, etc. The notion could be expanded to have a ‘1st Wednesday’ event happening every month of the year, rather than limiting this to once per year.

- We have any number of possible venues and existing structures: pop-up art displays could be anywhere, fences, inside/outside buildings (vacant and occupied w/ public access), fire hydrants, public and private open spaces, coordinated events (e.g., one on the Green, one at the Hyatt/Pioneer Park, one at 4 Maple Ave), better use of the Fall Festival for art-related activities, etc.
- Build on the successful Mini Cooper pop-up event.
- There may be a plan to redevelop the Bell Telephone property along Morris St and Rte 287 to include loft spaces – artists' live and work space.
- Morristown HS is holding an Art Design show on May 21-23, 2013. This will be a week-long series of events.
- Harry Simon sponsors ‘Art Around the Park’ quarterly (Sept, Dec, Mar, June) with seven locations. There is a transportation shuttle provided and a restaurant tie-in. This could be built-upon and rebranded.
- The Dec event is also an opportunity to display the Sol Levitt mural. We agreed it is more powerful if all panels are displayed together with video/speakers to show how it came together so need a big enough space to do this. Suggestions include the Community Theater, the County building Atrium, Merrill Lynch. We might also try outdoor displays.
- Coordinate with the Nancy Bangiola legal association to create interest and potential “flash mobs” 😊
- There could be an ‘Artist Walk’, studio tour like in Boonton although many artists do not actually live/work in M'town right now (more suburban).
- We need to think about more than visual arts, such as outdoor/indoor musicians, poets, etc. Think about the ‘Music of Morristown’ as a potential event. It could help bring downtown area to life and make the visitors to Morristown have a richer experience.
- The HQ Plaza provides an excellent, underutilized opportunity to display art.
- If doing building murals, this could be an ever changing display. The same could be done on the rail trestle by the train station (owned by the state). If changing murals, the Arts Council should keep documentation of the making of all murals and make this available to the public.
- Dance could be another aspect...using free dance lessons, live music, and dancing at the HQ Plaza for instance.
• It was strongly recommended that the Arts Commission do not become part of Morristown government. This will unnecessarily politicize their efforts. Instead stay public and non-profit, using relationship to Mayor, his wife, and perhaps a Council liaison to achieve our objectives.

• Do not try to change the laws unless this becomes an absolute necessity. Work within existing permitting processes, but try to get a streamlined approach approved. We can start small and work toward larger efforts.

What needs to happen next?

• Work with local government and the Morristown Partnership to inform elected and appointed officials of our ‘Morristown as a cultural destination’ plans. Have them help us build acceptance of arts as a meaningful economic growth vehicle.
• Position Morris Arts Commission as a resource connection, creating a ‘landscape view’ of available resources and events.
• Work with an insurance agent (e.g., Coutts) to understand what affordable options might be available to meet our new needs.
• Work with local government to simplify/improve the permitting process for local arts projects.
• Identify and document all potential spaces/venues that may be used – vacant and occupied – and who owns them.
• Understand and document any time parameters or other limitations on venues and events.
• Learn more about the redevelopment plans – Morris St, HQ Plaza, etc. to tie in our plans from an opportunity and timing perspective.
• Activity generates interest – variety is the key. Once we establish a 1st Wednesday concept, people will come just because they will know something is going on.
